HOARSENESS

Description:	Repeated episodes of pain to eat, or to pass the saliva, accompanied with or without voice changes. If the symptoms are accompanied with fever or pain, See Tonsillitis.
Is it an emergency?	No, nevertheless, the persistence of the pain more than 3 days forces to a rapid consultation.
Test to be done :	The Flexible Fibronasolaryngoscopy The diagnosis is confirmed by the direct examination of the oral cavity and the larynx during the Office visit. The direct larynx visualization is possible in more than 50% of the patients. Otherwise, The Flexible Fibronasolaryngoscopy is the examination of choice.
Procedure done in office:	Flexible fibronasolaryngoscopy .N This very well tolerated procedure consists of introducing a flexible endoscope of 4 mm of diameter inside the pharyngolarynx to visualize the characteristics of the mucosa. The better patient tolerance is obtained with the smaller endoscope diameter, of the new endoscope generation.
Procedure done in the operating room:	Tonsils resurfacing with radio frequency, foreign body extraction, etc.
